

I urge the FCC to reject petition 04-160 presented by the NAB. I continually use the traffic and weather information provided by XM Satellite radio during my daily commutes and have found this information more up to date, more frequently communicated, and much more valuable than the information transmitted via traditional terrestrial radio. I subscribe to this monthly service for this information in particular and can see no reason why the NAB should have the right to take away an informational service that I have elected to subscribe to. Sincerely,

Ernest Rennells
